REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF THE
MAINE GENERAL HOSPITAL,
FOR THE YEAR ENDING OCTOBER, 1877.

---

The Directors of the Maine General Hospital, in compliance with the by-laws of the Corporation, beg leave to present their seventh annual report:

Between four and five hundred patients have been admitted to the wards since the opening of the Hospital in October, 1874; and they have come from all sections of the commonwealth.

Nearly two hundred operations, covering almost the entire domain of surgery, have been thus far performed, and with a measure of success highly creditable to the Hospital and to its surgical staff.

The construction account is closed, and nothing further in that direction will be required for a long period of years.

We propose at this time to offer for your consideration statistics relating to the interior organization and daily life of the Institution, to aid you in determining whether or not it has been managed with fidelity to its best interests and in accordance with the wishes and purposes of its founders and friends. We will begin with the pay roll, in which are included the annual salaries of the Superintendent and Matron, also a complete list of the employés and the monthly rate of wages which each receives.

Male Night Nurse,	15
Engineer,	25

Two Laundresses,	12 each.
Four girls for table and general work,	12 each.
Female Night Nurse (without board),	20
Night Watchman, 5½ mos. winter (without board),	20

This, with the salaries of the Superintendent and Matron, the former receiving one thousand and the latter three hundred dollars per annum, makes the aggregate amount $4,326.23.

Second, we invite your attention to the house diet of the Hospital, and will take, as an average sample, the bill of fare for the present month of October.

The above constitutes the regular house diet. The attending physicians and surgeons prescribe, of course, from day to day, the kind and form of nutriment which the condition of their patients may require.

We desire to repeat, in this connection, what we have more than once said, that the current expenses of the Hospital would be but slightly increased by an accession of twice the present number of patients, which, in our belief, we shall have at no distant day, while the additional revenue from that source, judging from our past and present receipts, would go far towards its support.

The annual consumption of fuel has given occasion to much comment, if not severe criticism. Indeed, many friends of the Hospital have regarded the coal bill, if not extravagant, as unnecessarily large, under the erroneous impression that heat by indirect radiation is an unwarrantable luxury, and not, as it really is, so far as applied, a hygienic necessity.

Permit us again to go briefly into details.

First, the consumption of fuel would not be increased if our average number of patients was increased four fold. It would cost no more to warm eighty than twenty inmates, which will be seen at a glance by an inspection of the premises.

Second, the very important fact should be remembered, one that is not understood, and, of course, not recognized in the community, that our heating apparatus performs the function of ventilation, the most essential element in hospital construction.

The great defect in hospitals built years ago, when the laws of sanitary science were not known as they are to-day, lies in this direction.

Exhalations ever arising from the bodies of the sick, and especially from diseased and decaying tissue, soon contaminate the air, and, unless speedily removed by adequate appliances, exert a deleterious effect upon all exposed to their influence.

In the hospitals referred to, the vitiated air, in consequence of defective construction, can never be wholly removed, and, in the progress of time, notwithstanding every possible precaution, a subtle poison is generated, which, permeating the entire structure, endangers the health and even the lives of the patients, especially those who have to encounter the shock of severe surgical operations. Indeed, it has often been recommended, in a sanitary point of view, to demolish all such structures, and to subject the materials to the purifying process of fire as the only effectual way of destroying the poison with which, from the accumulation of years, the very bricks become saturated. Happily, this hygienic fact was well understood by the projectors and early friends of the Maine General Hospital; and, regarding the comfort and safety of patients of paramount importance, they wisely determined that, at whatever cost, the wards should be constructed in accordance with the most advanced principles of heat and ventilation, as applied to hospital architecture.

The apparatus adopted, we are happy to say, exceeds in every respect our most sanguine expectations, furnishing as it does the requisite amount of heat, with an uninterrupted supply at all times of fresh air. Indeed, the air in the general wards can be entirely renovated every twenty minutes, if necessary, day and night. We have no fear of toxæmia or blood-poisoning there; and, although our admirable arrangement may involve the expense of a few additional tons of coal, can the expenditure be regarded in any other light than as a judicious and eminently humane investment, in view of the diminished death-rate which must follow as a sure, and may we not say priceless, result?

We desire again to refer to statistics, that you may come to an approximate judgment in regard to the relative consumption of fuel in our Hospital as compared with kindred institutions, some of them of greater magnitude than ours, long established in New England. We copy from the annual reports, the last issued, for the year 1876:

Maine Insane Hospital,	$7,236.77
McLean Asylum, at Somerville,	8,363.76
Massachusetts General Hospital,	6,471.76
Boston City Hospital,	10,506.35
Rhode Island Hospital, of which ours may in some respects be regarded as the counter- part, especially in the number of cubic feet to be heated,	2,703.83

The stock of coal we now have on hand will carry us over the present hospital year, and the whole expense for the year will not much exceed two thousand dollars.

We desire, in this connection, to embody in our report the following letter from experienced engineers, who were requested to make a thorough inspection of our entire heating apparatus, with a view to retrenchment of expenses, if practicable, in that department.

PORTLAND, June 13, 1877.

DR. F. H. GERRISH, Secretary, Maine General Hospital.

DEAR SIR:—The following report is submitted as the result of the investigation undertaken by George F. Morse, Esq., and myself, into the economical management of the heating and ventilation of the Maine General Hospital.

After examining the buildings, boilers and heating apparatus, and from a thorough discussion of the whole question with the Resident Physician, Dr. C. O. Hunt, we came to the conclusion that there was no evidence of waste of fuel, and that, all things considered, the amount of fuel used was not excessive.

Respectfully submitted, for the Committee.

W. H. PENNELL.

Within the year, at the earnest solicitation of your Directors, a ladies' Visiting and Advisory Board has been organized, following the precedent established in 1873 in the Massachusetts General Hospital, and with the promise of very beneficial results. The Committee consists of twelve ladies, divided into sub-committees of two, who make regular weekly visits to the Hospital. They have entered upon the work with earnestness, and their visits are warmly appreciated by the patients. They keep no record of their visits, but, in addition to words of sympathy and manifold kind offices which always gladden the hearts of the sick, have a watchful eye over the domestic economy of the Hospital, and make to the Directors, from time to time, such reformatory suggestions as in their judgment its interests may require.

In the early summer a circular was sent to clergymen of all denominations in the various towns and cities of the State, earnestly requesting them to place upon their church calendar one Sunday in each year, to be known as "Hospital Sunday," when the claims of hospitals for Christian sympathy and support can be specially presented, and contributions solicited in their behalf. We acknowledge with gratitude responses to our appeal from the following sources:

From the seven hundred and more church organizations already existing in the State, may we not confidently believe that, in addition to those enumerated, many others will be ready to follow their example, and to consecrate in the coming year a Sabbath to this eminently humane purpose?

The smallest contributions, such as will come within the means of all who may be interested in the object, will be gratefully received; and, if bestowed, will furnish in the aggregate the requisite means for the support of many free beds.

The permanent fund of the Hospital, derived from legacies and contributions, some of them received since our last annual meeting, the interest of which can only be used for hospital purposes, amounts to $12,221.07, viz :

We again earnestly appeal to the sons and daughters of Maine, wherever residing, for the requisite means to place this noble charity upon the financial basis its necessities require, and to which its intrinsic claims for public sympathy and support pre-eminently entitle it.

The reports of the Treasurer, Superintendent, and Matron are herewith presented, and will receive the careful consideration which their importance demands.

We cannot withhold the expression of our warmest thanks to the many friends of the Hospital in the State who, by generous donations in various forms, have manifested their interest in its behalf, and contributed largely to the comfort and pleasure of the patients.

This makes the average cost of each patient per week $13.84.

There has been received from patients for board, $4,948.96.

Excess of expenditure over receipts from patients, $8,- 147.58.

Net cost to the Hospital of each patient per week, $8.61.
This is somewhat larger than last year on account of the larger proportion of free patients that have been received.

The free beds, maintained by annual subscription or permanent endowment, which have been available during the present year, have been as follows :

By Mrs. Dummer, (annual,)	from Oct. 1, 1876, to Feb. 10, 1877.
" Mrs. Dummer, (permanent,)	" May 23, 1877, to Sept. 30, "
" Miss Chadwick and others,	" Oct. 1, 1876, to Sept. 30, "
" Dr. Foster and others,	" " " to July 27, "
" S. E. Spring,	" Jan. 18, 1877, to Sept. 30, "
" State,	" May 11, " to Sept. 30, "
" Miss M. Snow,	" July 14, " to Sept. 30, "

This gives an aggregate of  $200\frac{3}{4}$  weeks. It will be seen that the relief afforded to free patients ( $401\frac{3}{4}$  weeks) is even more largely in excess of the free beds than last year. As the Hospital is becoming more widely and favorably known throughout the State, the number of applications in behalf of poor patients is continually increasing. It has been necessary to refuse admission to a large proportion of these applicants, simply on account of our want of means to support them. But some of the most urgent cases were received, with the advice of the Directors, notwithstanding there were often no free beds vacant. This is the great want of our Hospital at this time—a larger free bed fund. We ought to have at least twenty free beds at once.
I can only repeat, even more earnestly, the hope expressed in my last report that means may be obtained by which the benefits of the Hospital may be extended more largely to this class, for whom it was founded.

I have received much valuable assistance during the past year from the ladies' visiting committee. Their visits have been made with great regularity; and, seeing the wants of the Hospital, they have been able to make them known, and secure many valuable contributions of supplies and comforts for the patients. These are suitably acknowledged in the Matron's report. I wish to mention, however, a valuable contribution of vegetables just received, through Mrs. D. W. Fessenden, from several gentlemen of Cape Elizabeth, viz: A. M. Jordan, 1 bbl. Potatoes; R. E. Haskell, 1 bbl. do.; W. C. Robinson, 1 bbl. do.; D. W. Fessenden, 1 bbl. do.; A. J. Nichols, 1 bbl. do.; Abiah Chamberlain, 1 bbl. do.; Scott Jordan, 1 bush. do.; Chas. Robinson, 1 bbl. do.; James Robinson, 1 bush. do., 1 bush. Beets, 1 bush. Onions; A. J. Wheeler, 1 bbl. Squash. We have also the promise of more from the same vicinity. It seems to me that if this movement could be extended through other towns, a large amount of supplies could be obtained. Scarcely any farmer would refuse to give something, if solicited, and the aggregate of small individual contributions would be large.

We are indebted to the Tea Club and the St. Nicholas Circle for further improvements in the rooms furnished by them; the former having added pictures, and the latter, pictures and a wardrobe, and they have also had the walls frescoed in oil.

The elevator fund, collected by the Matron, Mrs. Warren, has increased during the year $352.94; making the whole amount $1,043.59.

I enclose report of the Matron, of donations received by her.

Respectfully submitted,

CHAS. O. HUNT,

Resident Physician and Superintendent.
